

RPO case study: speed talent screening with a shared services model.

industry: multinational technology manufacturer

challenges & goals

Faced with stiff competition for top manufacturing and engineering roles, the company sought to implement a faster screening process to engage qualified talent sooner.

solution

Accessed through its recruitment process outsourcing (RPO) solution, the company uses resources in Randstad Sourceright's specialized recruitment centers to enable a scalable, more efficient approach to screening talent, without sacrificing quality.

key results

With this new approach, the company screens its specialized talent much faster, improving the time to submit candidates from 30 days to 23 days.

> read the full case study

